The Library subscribes to over 105 databases that give you online access to books, magazines, and journal articles. All of the following databases are available from any Internet accessible computer, twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week. Start at the Library web page - www.NortheastState.edu/library/.

From off-campus, you will be required to enter your Northeast State user name and password when you select a database. If you are a community borrower, please contact the Library at 423.354.2429 for the appropriate login information.

Full-Text means that the entire book or article is available for you to read on the computer. Partial Full-Text means that there are some full-text articles and some articles with a citation (only information on where to find the article), abstract or summary (brief information about the article).

eBOOKS

eBooks are full-text books online. To access the eBooks, choose eBooks – Full-Text Books Online under Resources on the right side of the Library's web page and then choose any of the listed resources.

Testing & Education Reference Center
Provides information on colleges and programs, as well as covers preparatory examinations including entrance exams, certification and licensing tests such as ACT, CLEP, GED, GMAT, GRE, SAT, LSAT, NCLEX, EMT Basic Certification Exam, Civil Service Exams, and more.
To find articles, select Online Databases from the Library web page. (Online Databases is located at the upper right in the blue strip near the top of the Library web page or under Resources on the right side of the screen.)

Once you have chosen Online Databases, you will be able to look at the most popular databases that cover a wide assortment of topics or find articles by subject by looking under Browse by subject, which will direct you to appropriate databases to use for specific topics. Full descriptions of the databases are available when you choose a subject heading under Browse by subject or choose the first letter of the database’s name under Browse by Title. You can also choose to search multiple databases at the same time by using Multi-Search. (Multi-Search can also be accessed from the Library web page by clicking on the Articles tab on the left side of the screen.) You can look at all of the results and refine your search to be more specific by using the options on the left side of the screen under Refine your results or by adding additional words into the Search box at the top of the screen.

Also from the Library web page, you can search for full-text journals by title or subject area by using Find an e-Journal. Just click on Find an e-Journal under Resources on the right side of the screen or choose the e-Journals tab on the left side of the screen. This resource will tell you which database(s) the specific title is located in and let you link directly to that title. You can then browse the issue(s) of the selected title. You cannot search for articles here – only titles of journals.
